

Old Shoes (and Postcards) Tom Waits

Well I'm (G)singing this song, cause it's (C)time it was (G)sung
I've been putting it off for a (D)while,
Cause it's (G)harder by (C)now, and the (G)truth is so (C)clear
That I am (G)crying when I'm (D)seeing you (G)smile.(D)

So good(G)bye, so (C)long, the (G)road calls me (C)dear
And your (G)tears cannot bind me any(D)more,
And fare(G)well to the (C)girl with the (G)sun in her (C)eyes
And I'll (G)kiss you, and (D)then I'll be (G)gone.

And every (G)time that I tried to (C)tell you that (G)we'd lost the magic we had at the (D)start,
I would (G)weep my (C)heart when I (G)looked in your (C)eyes
And I (G)searched once a(D)gain for the (G)spark.(D)

So good(G)bye, so (C)long, the (G)road calls me (C)dear
And your (G)tears cannot bind me any(D)more,
And fare(G)well to the (C)girl with the (G)sun in her (C)eyes
And I'll (G)kiss you, and (D)then I'll be (G)gone.

Oh you (G)know that there's something (C)calling me (G)dear and by (G)morning, I'm sure to be (D)gone
For I'm (G)older than (C)you and you (G)know so (C)well
That our (G)time for to (D)love was a (G)song (D)

So good(G)bye, so (C)long, the (G)road calls me (C)dear
And your (G)tears cannot bind me any(D)more,
And fare(G)well to the (C)girl with the (G)sun in her (C)eyes
And I'll (G)kiss you, and (D)then I'll be (G)gone.

Now I can (G)see by your eyes, it's (C)time now to (G)go
So I'll (G)leave you to cry in the (D)rain,
Though I (G)held in my (C)hand, the (G)key to all (C)joy
Honey my (G)heart was not (D)born to be (G)tamed.(D)

So good(G)bye, so (C)long, the (G)road calls me (C)dear
And your (G)tears cannot bind me any(D)more,
And fare(G)well to the (C)girl with the (G)sun in her (C)eyes
And I'll (G)kiss you, and (D)then I'll be (G)gone.
And I'll (G)kiss you, and (D)then I'll be (G)gone.
And I'll (G)kiss you, and (D)then I'll be (G)gone.(C G)
